Young Boy, Man Are Victims

Two Car Crash On County Road Kills Two, Injures Six Others

A rear head-on collision between two cars near Forbush Corners east of Frederic on County Road 612 Friday evening cost the life of a 2-year-old boy, a 48-year-old man and injured six other people.

Two-year-old David Henion of Michigan Center, Mich., and General W. Mason, 48, of Frederic, who died at the Saginaw Veteran's Hospital Tuesday night at 11 p.m. Injured were David's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Henion, his brothers, James, 16, and David, 6, and sister, Judy, 14. The two passengers in the other car were Mason, and Kenneth Shumacher, 25, both of Frederic, who was also injured.

Funeral services will be held for Mason on Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the Sorenson Funeral Home. Other details of the services had not as yet been decided.

Still at Mercy Hospital and being carried on the critical list are the victim's father and older brother.

Lt. Colonel Ronald D. McDonald, now acting chief of staff of the 46th Infantry Division, Michigan National Guard and well known in Grayling was recently graduated from the Army War

Narcotic Traffic Among Young People Mostly Confined To Wayne County

DESPITE GROWING CON-CERN, narcotics traffic among Michigan young people is not a problem of law enforcement here,
says State Police Commissioner
Joseph A. Childs.

Few complaints about dope originate in rural areas. State Police estimate that of 193 cases investigated in 1955, some 85 per cent occurred in the more populous
parts of Wayne County.

Narcotics peddlers remain a chief target of police activity. According to Childs, most dope entering the state is driven in by automobile from Chicago or Cleveland.

Effective interruption of illegal narcotic shipments is a prime objective of our efforts in this area," Childs says. "The detective branch of the State Police has been successful in the past in confiscating large quantities of narcotic supplies."

"LET GEORGE DO IT," the familiar catch-phrase denoting escape from an unpleasant job, is being capitalized into the newest
of Michigan's summer festivals.
"George" will receive "his" day of honor at Corunna county seat of Shiawassee County.

Town fathers have proclaimed
Aug. 11 and 12 "George Do It Day."
They plan a festive complete with street dances and barbecue honoring the mythical man
of many talents.

Everyone attending the festivities will lose his given name for the day. All men are to be called "George" while the women will be known as "Georgia."

Idea for the new festival came about when Corunna started a campaign for city improvement.
As little as only a year ago, Corunna was as down as a toad could be, all because "George" was supposed to do it." George Durham, editor of the Shiawassee News
comments, "Then things began to happen. Slow at first, as is always the case, then in a steady tempo. More new buildings went into construction than ever before in Corunna's history. A $390,000 sewer program was passed by the city council."

Unique attractions provide Michigan visitors with special entertainment throughout the summer. "George Do It Day"
should join the many special summer events including the Ionia
Free Fair and the Lowell and Chesaning Showboats, as the
"something extra" that both residents and tourists enjoy seeing.

tive fire in years, the department is keeping its fingers crossed as

at Makes America . . .

There's no doubt that in the last generation or so persons have developed the habit of looking to government to do things for them and to solve their problems.

This statement by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is highly timely: "The success of our economy is not upon government, but upon the efforts of the people all trying to do a little more for themselves, trying to better themselves and their loved ones. It is the cumulative effect of all this individual effort that makes our system superior to anything known in this world before. That's what makes America."

ggest Growth . . .

The National Industrial Conference Board points out that while everything about this country has grown enormously in the last 40 years, the growth and cost of government have grown most.

In 1922, for example, our national income was up 422 per cent. But the total tax burden has gone more than twice as much — 968 per cent. And the figure would be higher still if the annual $11 billion in social security levies were included.

This clearly shows why cutting the cost of government and eliminating every non-essential activity of government is our number one domestic problem.

wonderful Place For The Housewife!

The United States must be a wonderful place for the housewife!

That according to the president of an American food company, was the comment most frequently made by Italian housewives who visited a complete "American Way" supermarket which was an outstanding exhibit at a recent international congress in Rome. There's no doubt that those same Italian housewives would have had a chance to visit an "American Way" variety store, department store, specialty shop, or any other modern U.S. retail outlet, would have made similar comment. And that would be true of housewives in most of the other countries of the world.

The point is that the American system of mass distribution — like the American system of mass production which it complements — has no counterpart elsewhere on the globe. Even in the most advanced European countries, generally speaking, retail stores which even fairly approximate American standards are found only in the large cities, and are few in number. Here in the United States the people in the small towns get the same kind of goods, at about the same prices, along with the same standards of service and sanitation, as do the people in any metropolis. And the take-home pay of the average American family will buy far more of the necessities and luxuries than is the case with the average European family — due in considerable part to intense retail competition.

Yes — the United States is a "wonderful place for the housewife!"

She was united in marriage to Luther Herrick in Gaylord in August 1928 and the couple made their home at 507 Ogemaw street in Grayling. He preceded her in death. Imported Young Grayling Thriving

Lansing — About 113,000 young grayling are thriving on a diet of brine shrimp and ground beef liver at Wolf Lake hatchery, west of Kalamazoo.

The young fish are the Montana variety of the grayling, closely relative of the now-extinct Michigan grayling. They came as eggs from the Montana State Fish and Game Commission earlier this month and will serve as an "exhibition" population for educational purposes.

Conservation Department officials say a long history of attempts in the early years of this century failed to keep the Michigan grayling from extinction.

The Detroit News gave $1,000 to buy the eggs from Montana at the start of the program.

A first shipment in June was ruined during transit and only 13,000 of 100,000 eggs hatched.

Montana then responded with another shipment of 100,000 and the hatchery planned at the Wolf Lake station.

The youngsters are being cared for in inside tanks and may be viewed at the hatchery anytime during the hatchery work week.

There's Danger About!

We're in a National Traffic Emergency Which Threatens Our Health and Wealth

We're in the midst of a national traffic emergency. It threatens the life, limb and pocketbook of every one of us.

The traffic fatality problem is not confined to the congested larger cities. In fact, three times as many persons are killed in rural areas and in towns under 2,500 population than in the larger cities. The highest rural death totals are recorded in July, August, September and October.

The awesome outlook is that within the next 12 months you or some one of each of four drivers in your neighborhood is marked statistically to be in an automobile accident.

Within the next 10 years one of every four families can expect to be stunned by the news that a loved one has been hurt, crippled, maimed, disfigured for life or killed in a traffic smashup.

Traffic injury expectancy, according to safety engineers, for the Kemper Insurance group, indicates that few children today can expect to go through life without being hurt—yes, hurt—in a motoring mishap.

Frightening, you say? Apparently not frightening enough.

Last year more time, effort, money and energy was expended than during any previous year to stop the slaughter on our streets. And what happened?

We killed 36,300 of our fellow citizens—2,300 more than the previous year—and an estimated 1,500,000 received injuries.

Haven't we made any progress?

The economic loss was more than $4 billion, or enough to produce the income tax of every family about $100.

This year we're putting even more money, time and extra effort into solving our traffic problems than last year. But instead of getting better the picture is worse.

Homicides on the highway is hitting an alarming record pace in 1956. At the rate we're going so far this year, 42,000 Americans will die violently in traffic—the highest number in our history.

Sometimes within the next five or so years, we're likely to reach the 50,000 mark in violent traffic accidents.

Accident pressures are mounting steadily as more and more high-powered cars roll off the production lines each year on to our already overcrowded streets and highways.

Twenty years ago about 27,000,000 motor vehicles were registered in the country. This year the figure is more than 60,000,000 and it's going up daily.

Meanwhile, our highway system has become woefully inadequate. Very little road building went on during World War II and during the early postwar years. Despite the high pitch of current activities on the local, state and federal levels, it will be many years—if ever—before our highway facilities can be considered adequate, authorities assert.

Haven't we made any progress?

That is why a vast number of voters approved the drafting of Representative Emil Peltz as the Republican candidate to succeed himself to this important office.

He offers the kind of representation that is needed, should be continued and we know we can get.
